Dear Sam:

I appreciate the opportunity of having my books displayed during the annual Yokefellow Conference. I have asked the publisher of my book Jesus' Church to send the ten copies you requested. They are being sent on consignment. I will be glad to take back with me any unsold books after the Conference. My latest book, Three American Revolutions, published by Carlton Press in New York is a book that I don't think you will have time to order. I have asked a Yokefellow, Jack Sells, who operates a book store in Cookeville, Tennessee to bring the ten copies you requested. We will be happy to provide them to you at the regular wholesale discount of 40% and will be glad to take back any of the copies you do not sell.

Unfortunately, my other three books are out of print.

I look forward to being with you during the Conference and renewing our friendship.

Sincerely yours,

John Allen Chalk

The Rev. John Allen Chalk

Dear Rev. Chalk,

Would it be possible for you to have your publisher send us 10 copies of each of your five books on consignment so we may have them available for the Annual Yokefellow Conference this month?

In the past we have found that people attending are usually anxious to buy books written by conference speakers.

All unsold books would be returned the week after the Conference.

It will be good to have you here again and we look forward to being with you.

Sincerely,

Sam Emerick
Director
